This blog is designed to provide a forum for Melbourne University students and the wider public to think about and discuss issues relevant to the relationship between law and development. The idea behind the blog is to create a community of scholars and practitioners in the field of law and development – a community where we can discuss contemporary issues and engage in each others ideas. The site will also act as a communication point for events and news about law and development, as well as a repository for publications and other media relevant to the field.
